

City, University of London publish first Global Goals Report

Congratulations to City on the publication of their Global Goals 2020 Report. The report showcases City's impact and innovation in sustainability-related research, education, engagement, and campus management and they hope it will be of interest and inspiration to you and your networks.

They will be formally launching the report at an online event 'Considering the role of higher education in achieving the Global Goals' on Tuesday 12th January, 14.00 – 15.15. The event will include a roundtable discussion on higher education and the Global Goals with contributions from Meg Baker (SOS-UK), Colleen Howell (UCL) and Joanna Newman (Association of Commonwealth Universities), as well as questions from the virtual floor.

Registration is open to all, see here.
